Description

MINOCQUA was launched in 1947 and is a bridge-deck cruiser from Lars Halvorsen Sons. The design was done by Harold Halvorsen. It was given the job number 820 and was built at their Ryde shipyard. When first launched the bridge-deck was open, and the fixed flying-bridge canopy is a later addition that blends in well with the stylish lines of the vessel. The hull lines are also ideal for their purpose as fast displacement hulls, quite capable of offshore passages in good conditions. It was luxury craft like these that made Halvorsens the premier motor cruiser builders for many years after World War II, and encouraged them to look at exporting their designs to the USA. MINOCQUA is one of the flagship craft around Australia for the Halvorsen fleet, and has featured at a number of Classic and Wooden Boat festivals in recent years.
