Description

TOORONGA is 10.97m long, and is carvel planked construction. It was built at the Halvorsen's Ryde boatbuilding yard and put into operation with the hire fleet as soon as it was launched. It was the first of a modest number of 36 foot standard cruisers built for both the fleet and private clients wanting a craft of that size.

When the hire fleet was disbanded in the 1990s it was the last vessel from the fleet sold. It went to private buyers. It is now being gradually restored and will remain in its hire fleet configuration and detail, including the chart board. It will also show some of the 'wear and tear' of its time as a hire boat; the inevitable scuffs and scratches to the fitout are now varnished over, but stay there to tell the story of its time. And despite these superficial marks it remains overall in excellent condition, and often joins in activities with other Halvorsen craft.
